SCRANTON 2019 RECRUITING ID CLINICS

July 6th and 20th
The University of Scranton
Jamie Spangler, a graduate of the University of Pittsburgh, was named head coach of the University’s women's volleyball program prior to the 2013 season. In his first five seasons, he led the Royals to a total of 138 victories, including 35 in 2017. In 2014 and 2017 Spangler mentored the University’s only 2 volleyball All-Americans, Julia Crilly was the first in 2014.

In 2017 Scranton received votes in the AVCA top 25 poll for the first time ever. Spangler was named Landmark Conference Coach of the Year after the Royal’s runner-up season. 2018 marked back to back years that The Royals found themselves in the regional rankings.

Spangler also is the head coach for the boys’ volleyball program at Abington Heights, where, in 6 seasons, Spangler has a cumulative record of 70-11. Spangler led The Comets to league titles 3 out of the last 4 years, ‘15, ‘16, and ‘18.

What is an ID Clinic?

An ID clinic is designed as an opportunity for prospective student athletes to showcase their skills for recruitment onto The University of Scranton volleyball team. In addition to a showcase, Coach Spangler will be teaching the athletes what it is like to compete in Scranton’s gym everyday. Using drills that The Royals use in their own practices, athletes will get an up close glimpse into what a practice may look like as part of the team.

As Spangler and the rest of the coaching staff begin to narrow down their recruiting targets in the junior and sophomore high school classes, it is very important to see the athletes up close and be able to interact with them individually. Many roster spot offers every year are based very heavily upon participation and performance at these clinics.
$100 per athlete
