After a promising 2008-09 season was derailed by a series of injuries, the Yale women’s basketball team returns seven letterwinners from that season, including four starters, for the 2009-10 campaign. Chris Gobrecht, entering her fifth year as the Joel E. Smilow, Class of 1954 Head Coach of Women’s Basketball, has also added a nationally-recognized recruiting class to a team that knocked off North Carolina State and came within 15 seconds of defeating Kentucky one season ago.

“The returning players have a great foundation of experience, and know how to be successful playing Yale basketball,” said Gobrecht. “Combining the returning players with a strong recruiting class, we finally have the depth to make our system work.”

The Captain
Ashley Carter will serve as the captain of the Bulldogs for her senior campaign. The three-year veteran has played in 82 games in her Yale career, including 27 contests last season. A versatile player known for her determination and hustle, Carter had a career game at Brown on Jan. 23, netting 13 points and hauling in nine rebounds.

“Ashley will continue to serve this team as a great emotional leader and a tremendous role model,” said Gobrecht of her senior captain. “Her work ethic and commitment to the team will be integral to our success.”

Backcourt
All three graduating seniors from the class of 2009 came from the Yale backcourt. The Bulldogs will need to replace nearly 12 points per game due to graduation losses, including former captain Jamie Van Horne ’09, who rewrote the three-point shooting record book in her four-year career. A pair of point guards returns to the Bulldogs’ backcourt for 2009-10, and Yale will also add a trio of newcomers into the mix.

Returning to run the point for Yale is junior guard Yoyo Greenfield. Playing in her first full season in 2008-09, and seeing her first Ivy League action, Greenfield was the Bulldogs’ second-leading scorer with 9.7 points per contest. She was also a prominent threat from beyond the arc with 32 three-point field goals and was one of the Ancient Eight’s top free-throw shooters with a .791 percentage (87-110) at the charity stripe.

As one of five Bulldogs to average more than 25 minutes per contest last season, Coach Gobrecht predicts that Greenfield will benefit greatly from Yale’s depth at the guard position. “We will finally be able to run a two-guard system and take advantage of Yoyo’s scoring ability this season,” said the 30-year Division I coaching veteran. “Her speed is perfect for our style of play.”

Sophomore Brianna Segerson saw action in 25 games as a rookie in 2008-09, splitting time at both guard positions. One of Yale’s leaders in assists and steals as a freshman, Segerson missed three Ivy League contests due to injury.

Joining Yale’s backcourt will be Megan Vasquez, a 5’7” guard from Merrick, N.Y. The only player in Sanford H. Calhoun High School history to eclipse 2,000 career points, and the only athlete in the school’s history to have her uniform number retired, Vasquez averaged 24.2 points, nine rebounds, eight assists and six steals per game as a senior. The 2008-09 Nassau County Player of the Year will help fill the void behind the arc left by Van Horne, and also adds tremendous athleticism and ball-handling skills to the shooting guard position.

“Megan has tremendous range and can flat-out score,” said Gobrecht. “Her size and athleticism at the guard spot will help us both offensively and defensively.”

Allie Messimer, a freshman guard from The Woodlands, Texas, also enters the fold after a four-year career at College Park High School. Messimer led the Cavaliers in scoring as a senior, and was also a starter for the nationally prominent club team Cy-Fair Shock Nike Elite.

Even as a guard, Coach Gobrecht will look to Messimer as an integral contributor to the Bulldogs’ rebounding effort: “Allie is a slashing guard who loves to crash the boards. We haven’t had a solid rebounder in our back court in my time at Yale.”

Another highly-touted recruit coming to New Haven is Aarica West, a guard from Buena Park, Calif. A 2008 graduate of Vista Murrieta High School, West was rated as one of the top 50 players in the class of 2008. She considered several top Division I programs before her heart fell for Yale after a visit. A First Team All-League selection and her team’s Most Valuable Player as a senior, West was also named her team MVP in a post-graduate year at Deerfield Academy in Deerfield, Mass.

“Aarica’s ability will add a number of new possibilities to our offense,” said Gobrecht. “She is a versatile player with the skills of a guard and the strength of a post player.”

Frontcourt

Just as it has been for the past three years, the frontcourt of the Bulldogs’ offense will be led by senior Melissa Colborne. Colborne was an All-Ivy Second Team selection in 2008-09 after leading the Bulldogs and finishing second in the Ivy League with 15.6 points per game. She also led the Ivy League in free throw percentage (.808, 156-for-193). Colborne cemented her place in Yale history last season, as she became the 16th Bulldog to score 1,000 career points. The 2006-07 Ivy League Rookie of the Year has climbed to ninth on the all-time list, entering her senior campaign with 1,171 career points. With one season left, the Calgary, Alta. native is already Yale’s all-time leader with 413 career free throws.

“The Ivy League has been unable to stop her for three years,” said Gobrecht of her premiere offensive weapon. “There’s something that clicks in senior players, especially when they have a great shot at winning, and I think Mel is hungry to finish her career right. A driven, determined Melissa Colborne is a scary thing for the rest of the Ivy League.”

After her All-Ivy caliber season was cut short due to injury in 2008-09, forward Haywood Wright returns to the lineup for her senior season. Wright averaged 9.5 points and 7.5 rebounds per game through the Bulldogs first 21 games, and, despite missing seven contests with a knee injury, her 34 blocks were a team best and ranked sixth in the Ivy League.

“Haywood is determined to be ready to go for her senior season,” said Gobrecht. “She was our Most Improved Player last season, and we are anxious to have her back in uniform.”

Junior Mady Gobrecht, a forward from Hamden, Conn., found herself as the only true post player in a Bulldogs’ frontline that was depleted by injuries last season. Gobrecht averaged 7.3 points and 7.2 rebounds per game in 2008-09 and finished in the top ten in the Ivy League in rebounds, assists (3.2 apg), steals (1.8 spg), blocked shots (0.8 bpg) and offensive rebounds (2.4 orpg). Coach Gobrecht predicts that Mady will flourish with the Yale roster at full strength in 2009-10.
“Mady was under a lot of pressure as our only healthy post player last season, and she will benefit greatly from our added depth,” said Gobrecht. “She is close to breakout year.”

Junior Lindsey Williams, who missed all of last season due to injury, will look to pick up where she left off in a freshman campaign that saw her land as a unanimous selection to the All-Ivy Rookie Team. Williams averaged 8.6 points and a team-best 6.6 rebounds in 2007-08.

“She is close to breakout year.”

Lindsey is a gifted player,” said Gobrecht. “We missed her last season after an outstanding freshman year, and she is anxious to get back on the court.”

The breakout player of the 2008-09 Bulldogs was sophomore Michelle Cashen. Cashen stepped up in the final seven games of her freshman campaign after Wright’s injury, averaging 6.9 points and 7.0 rebounds per game in that time. The Belle Harbor, N.Y. native was selected to the All-Ivy Rookie Team for her performance.

“Michelle is a skilled, intelligent player who I think is going to keep getting better,” said Gobrecht.

Another player who stepped up due to injuries in 2008-09 was junior Victoria Perez. Perez, who played just seven minutes as freshman, appeared in 10 contests last season, including the final six Ivy League games.

“Vicky is another physical presence for us under the basket,” said Gobrecht. “I will continue to expect her work ethic to push our other post players.”

The Bulldogs will get an offensive jumpstart in January 2010, when sophomore forward Verena Lehner becomes eligible. Lehner, who did not play as a freshman, is the first European player to suit up for the women’s basketball program. The native of Gmunden, Austria won a combined six national championships (high school and club) in her home country, and scored a game-high 24 points in an exhibition against Yale in the summer of 2007. Lehner was an all-league player as well as the team MVP in both basketball and volleyball in her senior year at the Pomfret (Conn.) School.

“Verena is the best shooting forward I’ve had at Yale,” said Gobrecht, “She will give us a great boost entering Ivy League play.”

A trio of freshmen rounds out the Yale frontcourt. Alicia Seelaus will join the Bulldogs out of River Hill High School in Clarksville, Md. A post player with the versatility to play outside as well, Seelaus was a member of a Maryland State Championship team as a freshman and earned a slot on the Baltimore Sun All-County First Team last season.

“Alicia’s best attribute is that she never backs down from any opponent,” said Gobrecht. “A tough, physical player who can also put points on the board is hard to find.”
Ericka von Kaeppler, a 6’0 forward from Palo Alto, Calif., was a three-time All-League selection and averaged a double-double in her senior season for the Castilleja High School Gators.

“Ericka has a tremendous upside,” said Gobrecht. “Her biggest challenge will be learning the college game, but she is a skilled, intelligent player who will continue to improve.”

A forward from Waban, Mass., Emily Wanger was a two-year team captain and four-year letterwinner at the Winsor School. She was three-time All-Eastern Independent League selection, including two MVP nods, and is the Winsor School’s all-time leading scorer.

“Emily can finish around the rim and finish with contact,” said Gobrecht. “Her toughness down low will be a great asset.”

The Ivy League
The Yale women’s basketball team has been selected to finish fifth in the upcoming 2009-10 campaign, as voted upon by the Ancient Eight media and sports information directors. The Bulldogs, 4-10 in the Ivy League in 2008-09, shared fifth place with Cornell. Dartmouth, the reigning Ivy League champion, was selected to repeat with 11 of 16 first-place votes.

Harvard grabbed the remaining five first-place votes in the poll to take second place. Princeton and Columbia were chosen to finish ahead of the Bulldogs and Big Red at third and fourth place, respectively, while Penn and Brown rounded out the poll at seventh and eighth.

Chris Gobrecht has a reputation for turning programs around. Though the 2008-09 Bulldog squad was hampered by a multitude of injuries, the 29-year Division I coaching veteran led her team to an 11-17 record, the team’s second-highest win total in the past seven seasons. 2008-09 also featured a landmark victory for the program over North Carolina State, Yale’s first win over an Atlantic Coast Conference opponent. Gobrecht also reached a milestone 450th career coaching win last season.

After posting a 3-24 mark in her first season with the Bulldogs, Coach Gobrecht led the team to 12 wins in the 2006-07. The nine-win improvement was one of the best in Division I that season. The 2006-07 season was highlighted by a six-game winning streak and a 15-point victory over a Marist squad that would reach the Regional Semifinals (Sweet 16) of the NCAA Tournament. Yale was also the only Ivy League team to defeat league champion Harvard. In 2007-08, Gobrecht led the Bulldogs to a 7-7 record in the Ivy League, their best conference record since 2001-02. Yale’s fourth-place finish in the league was also its highest since the 2001-02 campaign.

Gobrecht has amassed a 460-386 (.544) record during her 29 seasons, ranking her 31st among active coaches in career victories. The ninth coach in the 37-year history of Yale women’s basketball, Gobrecht has more career Division I victories than any other active basketball coach in the Ivy League, men or women. In her tenure at Yale, she has coached an Ivy League Rookie of the Year (Melissa Colborne, 2006-07) and two first team All-Ivy players (Colborne, 2007-08 and Erica Davis, 2006-07). Prior to Gobrecht’s arrival in the Elm City, a Bulldog player had not earned first team All-Ivy accolades since Katy Grubbs in the 1997-98 campaign.

“I believe Yale is one of the finest institutions in the world, and to be involved with this university is a privilege,” Gobrecht said upon her arrival in New Haven. “I think my career has been leading up to this.”

After turning around the Cal State Fullerton program, Gobrecht moved on to the University of Washington. In 11 years, her teams went to the NCAA Tournament on nine occasions. The Huskies reached the NCAA Regional Semifinals four times during her tenure, and advanced to the Regional Finals (Elite Eight) in 1990. She won at least 16 games every year at Washington, including eight 20-win campaigns (six consecutive), and is the Huskies’ all-time winningest coach with 243 victories. Washington won three conference championships and finished second four times during her tenure. A two-time Pac-10 Coach of the Year, Gobrecht led Washington to a school-record 28 wins and a number-three national ranking in 1989-90. The Huskies were the only team to beat eventual NCAA Champion Stanford that season.

“My observation of Chris goes back to my days in the Pac-10 when I saw how well she developed the program at the University of Washington,” Athletic Director Tom Beckett said. “She did a great job with the Huskies, and now she’s a Bulldog. We think it’s an absolutely perfect connection, and it’s definitely the right move for us.”
After 11 years at Washington, Gobrecht took over a struggling Florida State program in 1996. The Seminoles went 5-22 in Gobrecht’s only season before she left Tallahassee to take over at her alma mater, Southern California.

With USC’s win over Pepperdine on Dec. 4, 2002, Gobrecht became the 33rd active coach to reach the 400-win mark. In seven seasons with the Women of Troy, Gobrecht posted a 95-108 record. USC posted three winning seasons during her tenure, including a 15-13 mark in her final year, 2003-04. Two of her recruiting classes were ranked among the best in the country, and her teams regularly faced some of the best competition in the nation, including Pac-10 rival Stanford. In 2002-03 alone, the Women of Troy faced three of the previous four national champions: Connecticut, Tennessee and Notre Dame.

Gobrecht began her Division I coaching career with a struggling Cal State Fullerton program in 1979-80. She coached the Titans for six seasons, posting an 84-82 record. She led Cal State Fullerton to an 18-12 record in her third season on the job. In the 1984-85 season, Gobrecht’s last with Cal State Fullerton, the Titans posted a 19-11 record and made their first appearance in the WNIT, making her a finalist for national Coach of the Year honors.

She served as an assistant for a USA Basketball select team which played in Czechoslovakia and Italy in 1990. In addition, six of Gobrecht’s former players have played professionally in the WNBA and ABL.

Her coaching career began in 1978 at Santa Fe Springs (Calif.) High School, where her team went 20-4 and made the CIF AAA playoffs. The next year, Gobrecht led Pasadena City College to a 25-5 record, a conference championship and second place in the state junior college tournament.

A Toledo, Ohio native and a graduate of Huntington Beach (Calif.) High School, Gobrecht earned a bachelor’s degree in public affairs from USC in 1977. Then known by her maiden name of Chris Geiger, she was a three-year starter for the Women of Troy from 1974-76 and also played two seasons of volleyball at USC. After graduation, she spent a year volunteering in the Peace Corps, where she worked as an English teacher at St. Mary’s College in Apia, Western Samoa.

She and her husband, Bob, the Managing Director of Special Olympics North America, have two children: Eric, 23, a graduate of the U.S. Air Force Academy currently attending flight school, and Madeline, 20, a junior forward on the team.

Dianne Nolan enters her third season at Yale, and her first as Associate Head Coach, after 28 years as the head coach at Fairfield University. She accumulated 456 wins at Fairfield and led the Stags to four NCAA Tournament appearances. Nolan’s teams won three Metro Atlantic Athletic Conference (MAAC) Championships, and she earned MAAC Coach of the Year honors five times. With Fairfield’s 69-53 victory at Rider on Jan., 29, 2006, Nolan became the 28th coach in Division I history with 500 career wins. Her career record in 33 seasons at St. Francis (N.Y.) and Fairfield is 517-416.

Nolan took over the Fairfield program in 1979, and oversaw its transition to the Division I level in 1981. Her 28-year tenure is the ninth longest head coaching tenure at one school in NCAA Division I women’s basketball history. Under her watch, the Stags captured four MAAC Tournament berths and a spot in the 2000 WNIT. Fairfield won three MAAC regular season crowns and three MAAC Tournament championships and, in 2001, clinched the program’s first-ever at-large bid to the NCAA Tournament.

Nolan’s first two Division I Fairfield teams each won 18 games before her 1983-84 team posted a 22-6 record. That was the first of six 20-win seasons, including three 25-win campaigns. Her 1999-2000 and 2000-01 teams each won 25 games, earned back-to-back at-large postseason appearances and posted a combined 50-14 record during that span. The 1999-2000 team played Wisconsin in the WNIT, and her 2000-01 squad received just the second at-large NCAA Tournament invitation in MAAC history.

That 2001 squad was Nolan’s fourth NCAA Tournament team. Her first conference crown came in 1988, when the Stags knocked off LaSalle 55-50 in the MAAC Championship Game before falling to St. John’s in the NCAA Tournament. The Stags returned to the NCAA Tournament as MAAC champions in 1991 and again in 1998.

Five times, Nolan was recognized by her peers as the MAAC Coach of the Year. She was also named the MBWA Coach of the Year in 2001 and earned New England Coach of the Year honors in 1984.

Perhaps her most impressive achievement at Fairfield is the fact that every senior she coached with the Stags graduated with a degree on time. Many of her former players have gone on to successful coaching careers, including Bucknell head coach Kathy Fedorjaka and Quinnipiac head coach Tricia Fabri.

Prior to her stint at Fairfield, Nolan was the head coach at St. Francis (N.Y.) from 1974-79.

She earned a bachelor’s degree in health and physical education from Glassboro State University in 1973. Nolan earned a master’s degree in physical education from the University of West Virginia in 1974 and a second master’s in political and corporate communications from Fairfield University in 1989.

Nolan has been married to Mark Breslin for 27 years. They have three sons: Zach, a graduate of Fordham; and twins John and Andrew, who both attend Fairfield University.
Queen Smith enters her third season as an assistant coach at Yale. She works with the Bulldogs’ guards and also coordinates team travel. The life-long New Haven resident worked as the activity director for the National Youth Sports Program (NYSP) camps at Yale since 1997. She was inducted into the New Haven Tap-Off Club Hall of Fame on Nov. 13, 2007.

In addition to her work with the NYSP camps, Smith had worked with the New Haven Board of Education since 1996. Most recently, she served as the head girls volleyball and girls basketball coach at Wilbur Cross High School.

In 2001, Smith was named the IAABO Coach of the Year. She was also an assistant outdoor track coach at Wilbur Cross from 2000-05, where she worked with the sprinters and long/triple jumpers. The team won three state championships and three state open championships during her tenure.

While with the New Haven Board of Education, Smith also acted as a career specialist in the career service office. In this position, she helped students make educational/career choices and helped provide internship opportunities in students’ areas of interest.

Smith has been recognized by numerous organizations for her community service involvement. In 2001, she won the Seton Elm-Ivy Award, and she received the NYSP’s Silvio O. Conte Award of Excellence in 2002. Smith has also received the Secretary of State Public Service Award (2005), New Haven Network Partners in Education Award (2006) and New Haven Rotary Club Vocational Service Award (2007).

A 1996 Quinnipiac graduate, Smith (maiden name Edwards) was a three-time Northeast-10 Conference Defensive Player of the Year (1992-93, 1993-94, 1994-95). She earned a Second Team All-Northeast-10 selection in 1992-93. Smith is 12th on the Bobcats’ all-time scoring list with 1,207 points, and ranks second in assists (476), second in steals (394), and 10th in rebounds (594).

Smith and her husband, Dr. David N. Smith, currently reside in Hamden with their daughter, Melissa and son, David, Jr.
Amy Sokaitis
Volunteer Assistant Coach
Western State ’08
1st Season at Yale

Amy Sokaitis, currently in her first season as Volunteer Assistant Coach, comes to New Haven after a successful playing career as Western State College of Colorado. Sokaitis was a member of the 2006-07 Mountaineers squad that committed the fewest turnovers per game in the nation. She also shot 43% from three-point range in the 2007-08 season. Academically, Sokaitis graduated from Western State in 2008 with a bachelor’s degree in exercise and sports science. She is currently pursuing a graduate degree in sport management.

Sokaitis, a native of Fairbanks, Alaska, has worked for five years with the Challenge Life Youth Foundation. The non-profit organization promotes health and fitness education on the north slope of Alaska.

Coach Sokaitis’ father, Al Sokaitis, was an assistant coach for the men’s basketball program at the University of Washington during Coach Gobrecht’s tenure as head coach of the Huskies’ women’s squad.

Sokaitis currently resides in Branford, Conn.

Kathryn Whartenby
Strength and Conditioning Coach
Tusculum ‘05
3rd Season at Yale

Kathryn Whartenby joined the Yale strength and conditioning staff in the fall of 2007. In addition to working with the women’s basketball team, Whartenby is the primary strength coach for the Bulldogs’ men’s basketball squad and also works with Yale’s men’s soccer and women’s cross country, golf, lacrosse and swimming and diving teams.

Whartenby received a master’s degree from the University of Florida, where she worked with the women’s basketball, soccer and gymnastics teams. She also helped design and implement a strength and conditioning program for the Gators’ cheerleading squad.

While at Florida, Whartenby also taught classes for the Sport and Fitness Program and developed a fitness program for the Florida Department of Corrections.

She received her bachelor’s degree from Tusculum College in 2005.

History
In the fall of 1969, when undergraduate women were admitted to Yale, they entered a school which for 268 years had dedicated itself to educating men. At the same time, they were invited to participate in one of the best collegiate athletic programs in the country. They were confronted with a tradition that equated the Yale student with the Yale man. No one was quite sure what would come of this encounter, but it was certain that things would never again be the same.

In 1972-73, women’s basketball appeared on the Yale scene as a club sport and became a varsity sport the following year. The Bulldogs made an impressive Ivy debut, finishing second in the League in 1974-75. In 1976, Louise O’Neal was hired as the first full-time women’s basketball coach and Yale won its first Ivy League championship in 1979.

The following year, new head coach Maggie Muldoon led Yale to its best season ever at 17-9. In 1984-85, Diann Nestel took over the reigns of the program and beginning in her second season posted four consecutive non-losing seasons. Her 1988-89 squad won 15 games and finished second in the Ivy League—Yale’s best finish since 1979-80.

A number of talented individuals have donned the Yale blue uniforms since 1973-74. In 1978, Barb Liebowitz ’78 became the first Yale woman to score over 1,000 points in her career. Lisa Brummel ’81 was a three-time first-team All-Ivy selection and broke Liebowitz’s scoring record. She was also a two-time captain for the Yale softball team. Margy Hutchison ’83 was a two-time All-Ivy first-team pick, amassing over 800 rebounds during her playing career.

Sue Johnson ’86 broke nine different records during her senior year and set Yale’s all-time scoring record with 1,560 career points. An Academic All-American, she won the prestigious Francis Gordon Brown Prize, awarded each year to the Yale junior who best combines athletics and scholarship. Johnson was also one of four Division I players to receive an NCAA Post-Graduate scholarship.

In 1989, Randi Meberg became the second-leading scorer in Yale women’s basketball history with 1,496 career points. An Ivy League Player of the Year, winning the award in 1988-89.

Mary Kalich arrived on the scene in 1991 and immediately began rewriting the record books. She poured in 424 points that year to become the highest scoring freshman in Yale women’s basketball history, a feat which helped her earn Ivy League Co-Rookie of the Year honors. She reached the 1,000-point plateau in her junior year, and upon graduation in 1995, became Yale’s all-time scoring leader with 1,663 career points. Her 16.0 ppg career scoring average is the best in school history.

In 1999, Katy Grubbs became the first Yale player to lead the team in scoring and rebounding for four years. The 1995 Ivy League Rookie of the Year finished her career with 1,336 points and 638 rebounds. Erica Davis finished her career in 2007 as the program’s all-time leader with 182 blocks. Upon graduation, she also ranked fifth in rebounding (670) and seventh in scoring (1,262). Davis was an All-Ivy selection three times, earning first team recognition as a senior. Melissa Colborne was named the Ivy League’s top rookie in 2006-07 and earned first team All-Ivy laurels in 2007-08. She surpassed the 1,000-point plateau as a junior, entering her senior year at ninth all-time in scoring with 1,171 career points.

The Bulldogs have made two appearances in postseason play, reaching the Eastern Regionals of the AIAW championship in 1978 and 1979. Yale finished third in the 1978 tournament, winning three of its four games.

Karen Yarasavage Award

Throughout her Yale career, Karen Yarasavage ’87 became very well-known for “leaving it all out on the floor.” She has always been a strong supporter of the Yale women’s basketball program, and in 2006, her legacy was recognized with the institution of the Karen Yarasavage Award at the annual year-end team banquet. The award is presented annually to the player who most displays the attributes of grit and determination, Karen’s trademarks.

Yarasavage was the team leader in field goal percentage in her freshman season and stills holds the program record for career field goal percentage at .615. She also led the Bulldogs in rebounding in 1986-87. As a senior, she was team captain, a first team All-Ivy selection and was named the team’s Most Valuable Player.

Yarasavage graduated with a degree in psychology as a member of the Class of 1987. Today, she is a homemaker in Chappaqua, N.Y., where she lives with her husband, Kevin Genda, and their daughters, Kelsey, Kathryn and Kaylin. Yarasavage is a softball coach with the NCBSA and also coaches CYO basketball.

Jamie Van Horne was the 2009 recipient of the Karen Yarasavage Award.
