Case Western Reserve University is among the nation’s leading research institutions. Founded in 1826 and shaped by the unique merger of the Case Institute of Technology and Western Reserve University, Case Western Reserve is distinguished by its strengths in education, research, service and experiential learning.

Located in Cleveland, Ohio, Case Western Reserve offers nationally recognized programs in the arts and sciences, dental medicine, engineering, law, management, medicine, nursing and social sciences.

Since 1913, Case Western Reserve has been accredited by the Higher Learning Commission of the North Central Association of Colleges and Schools, and many individual programs are accredited by nationally recognized professional associations.

With an endowment of more than $1.4 billion, Case Western Reserve, in partnership with individuals, corporations, and foundations, supports about 100 designated academic and research centers and receives more than $400 million in external awards for research each year.

About 10,000 students, 40 percent undergraduate, are enrolled at the university. Students hail from all 50 states and more than 100 countries. A strategic leader in Cleveland’s cultural district of University Circle, Case Western Reserve offers students and faculty extraordinary access to learn from and partner with nationally and internationally renowned practitioners in the arts, medicine and business.

Case Western Reserve attracts renowned faculty whose expertise crosses numerous disciplines, reaches every corner of the world, and makes significant contributions to the way people live and work.

Virtually all faculty hold a doctorate or other appropriate terminal degree. The university counts 16 Nobel laureates among its alumni and current and former faculty, including the first American scientist to ever receive the prize.

Designated as one of the best places to work in Cleveland, Case Western Reserve generates a $1 billion impact on the region’s economy each year.
PRESIDENT BARBARA R. SNYDER

Barbara R. Snyder became president of Case Western Reserve University in 2007. Since her arrival, Snyder has encouraged interdisciplinary excellence, catalyzed institutional collaboration and reinvigorated alumni engagement and fundraising.

During her tenure, the university has tripled undergraduate applications, become twice as selective and dramatically improved the academic credentials of the entering class. Case Western Reserve reached the $1 billion goal of Forward Thinking, the university’s capital campaign, two-and-a-half years ahead of schedule. The Board of Trustees unanimously agreed to expand the campaign to $1.5 billion. Among the highlights of the university’s capital campaign are dramatic increases in the number of endowed professorships and student support, as well as additional new building projects. In 2014, the university opened the $50 million, 89,000-square-foot Tinkham Veale University Center, as well as the 24,000-square-foot Wyant Athletic and Wellness Center. It also began renovations on the space that will be the new home for think[box], a $30 million, 55,000-square-foot innovation hub.

In 2013, Case Western Reserve entered into a historic partnership with Cleveland Clinic to develop a 485,000-square-foot Health Education Campus including the university’s schools of medicine, nursing and dental medicine. In addition to the university’s collaboration with Cleveland Clinic, Case Western Reserve is also engaged in a partnership with the Cleveland Museum of Art to establish a globally recognized institute dedicated to innovative education and training of future curators in the history of art and its practice in art museums. And, we recently announced an initiative with Cuyahoga Community College to support a humanities pipeline program to develop a targeted and robust pathway for students to pursue a terminal degree in the humanities, which builds on our earlier STEM (science, technology, engineering and mathematics) pipeline programs.

Snyder began her academic career as an assistant professor at Case Western Reserve’s School of Law, then joined the faculty of Moritz College of Law at The Ohio State University. After serving in several leadership positions at Moritz and within the central university, Snyder became OSU’s Interim Executive Vice President and Provost in 2003 before securing the permanent position the following year. She graduated from the University of Chicago School of Law, where she served as executive editor of its law review, and earned her bachelor’s degree from Ohio State.
Lou Stark has served as the Vice President for Student Affairs at Case Western Reserve since July of 2013.

Prior to arriving at CWRU, he served as the Vice President for Student Affairs at Coe College (Iowa) for 16 years. Stark also served as the Vice President for Student Life at Central College (Iowa), and prior to that, Associate Vice President for Student Affairs at Tulane University (La.) and Associate Dean at Washington University in St. Louis. He has also held a variety of other student affairs positions.

He received an M.S. in Education in Counseling from Hofstra University, a B.S. in Psychology from Davis and Elkins College (W. Va.) and did additional graduate work in higher education administration. He received a certificate in management from the A.B. Freeman School of Business at Tulane.

Stark is a past President and a former Board member of the Iowa Student Personnel Association and has served on numerous other boards. Most recently, he served on the NCAA Division III Management Council. Previously, he has served on the President's Council/Management Council Joint Legislative Steering Committee, the Strategic Planning and Finance Committee, and the Convention-Planning Subcommittee.

V.P. FOR STUDENT AFFAIRS LOU STARK

DIRECTOR OF ATHLETICS AMY BACKUS

Named as Director of Athletics and Chair of Physical Education on April 18, 2014, Amy Backus is in her sixth year at Case Western Reserve University. Formerly the senior associate athletic director at Yale University, Backus brings the Spartans a wealth of experience as a Division I and III basketball coach along with more than a decade of work in athletics administration.

A former basketball standout at nearby Vermilion High School, Backus went on to a four-year career as a member of the women’s basketball team at Central Michigan University, serving as a team captain as a senior. After graduation, Backus began her professional career in intercollegiate athletics as a CMU assistant coach before scoring her first head coach position at then Otterbein College (now Otterbein University). She went on to similar positions at Middlebury College and Northwestern University and was the head coach at Yale University from 1999-2005 before retiring from the coaching ranks after a 26 year career.

Prior to arriving in Connecticut, she earned a master’s degree in administration and supervision with an emphasis on higher education from Loyola University of Chicago. She has served on numerous NCAA committees including the NCAA Division I Academic Performance Advisory Group, the NCAA Division I Legislative Council, and the NCAA Division III Interpretations and Legislative committee. She served as national chair of the NCAA Women’s Basketball Rules Committee from 2008-2010. She currently serves on the NCAA Gender Equity Task Force, a group of 11 commissioners, college presidents and athletics directors, the goal of which is to move the needle on gender equity in college sports.

At Case Western Reserve University, Backus is involved on numerous campus committees, including the Faculty Senate, the Faculty Senate Committee on Student Life, and the Committee on Women Faculty. Backus spearheaded a collaborative campus committee called 360 Proof, which explores the campus culture around alcohol. She also serves as a member of the VP for Student Affairs Executive team.

Several programmatic initiatives have been undertaken including the establishment of the first student athlete leadership academy at CWRU called “The Program”. In 2017, the department began a student athlete focused Sustained Dialogue, the first such dedicated program in the country. Sustained Dialogue develops leaders able to transform differences into strong relationships essential to respectful communities.

Facility upgrades have included new turf and synthetic surfaces at DiSanto Field for football and soccer, the Veale Athletic Center, Mather Softball Park, and Nobby’s Ballpark. Backus also has worked to acquire the Berry House, the future home of men’s and women’s tennis. Upgrades to several locker rooms, athletic training rooms and office space have taken place under her tenure.

Branding and marketing initiatives have been a priority for Backus as she seeks to celebrate the rich history and success of CWRU Spartan teams and individuals.

The 2019 season will mark the 15th year that the Case Western Reserve University football team has called DiSanto Field home.

The 2,400-seat, state-of-the-art stadium and surrounding residence hall complex opened in August of 2005 as Case Field and was renamed in October of 2013 as DiSanto Field. The facility boasts many distinguishing features, such as its spacious locker rooms, updated press box, field surface and surrounding track. The entire complex was built at a total cost of $126 million.

“As a coach and recruiter, you want to be able to show prospects a facility that they would be proud to call home during their collegiate career,” said Head Coach Greg Debeljak. “The players and parents who visit our complex walk away with that feeling and more.”

The field itself is a multifunctional field featuring a brand-new FieldTurf surface, installed during the summer of 2017. The field is surrounded by the eight-lane Coach Bill Sudeck Track, named after the legendary cross country, track and basketball coach in 2008. The field was built in a European box style, which provides the appropriate dimensions for soccer contests. Along with hosting varsity football, soccer and track events, the field is used for intramural activities, special events and for the general recreation of the campus community.

After playing over 35 years of football at Finnigan Field, the Spartans played their last game at the multi-sport complex on November 8, 2003. Finnigan Field had played host to many successful teams, including the 1984 Spartan football squad, which was the first in university history to finish the season undefeated. The field also was used as a practice facility for the Cleveland Browns from 1965 to 1972.

During the 2004 season, the Spartans played their home games at Brush High School’s Korb Field while construction on their new home was completed. Play opened at the new facility for the Case Western Reserve football squad in front of 2,300 fans on September 10, 2005 versus Denison University. The Spartans did not disappoint on that day, defeating the Big Red, 20-6.

The setting in which DiSanto Field was built is arguably one of the best in all of college athletics. The gridiron is surrounded by seven residence halls known as the Village at 115. These student dormitories, built in a horseshoe shape around the field, house around 800 undergraduate students, giving the facility a unique and intimate feel.
“Our attendance has more than doubled since the facility was opened,” explained Debeljak. “A very spirited atmosphere has created a home field advantage that is second to none in Division III.”

The stadium also boasts a modern and spacious press box. The area contains booths designated for both home and away broadcasts as well as a large work room for members of the media and school representatives. The coaches’ areas within the box are especially spacious and seat six coaches comfortably. Also included is the Coach Bill Edwards President’s Suite, which plays host to distinguished guests and sponsors. The press box includes wireless high-speed internet access and digital television throughout.

Currently, locker rooms are located adjacent to the field in the lower level of house seven of the dormitory complex along with a training room facility, named after Dr. Tom McLaughlin in 2007, which includes both full-size warm and cold whirlpools.

In the fall of 2014 the university opened the Wyant Athletic & Wellness Center. The facility was made possible by the $4 million commitment of 1965 Case Institute of Technology alumnus, James C. Wyant, PhD. A former captain of the CIT Roughriders’ cross country team, Wyant’s gift was influenced by the role of athletics during his college years.

As part of the North Campus Residential Village and Athletic Complex, the three-level facility includes the 4,500-square foot Belichick Weight Room – gifted by New England Patriot Head Coach Bill Belichick in honor of his father, Steve, a 1941 graduate of Western Reserve University; a 4,200-square foot cardio workout facility; and a 2,500-square foot Varsity Club with a balcony overlooking the football field and track. Future plans call for the addition of a large multipurpose space with synthetic flooring, as well as an additional wing with locker rooms, coaches’ offices, meeting rooms and a training/medical facility.
16th Season • John Carroll ’88 • Record: 110-45 (.710)

Greg Debeljak has become the most accomplished coach in the history of the Case Western Reserve University football program since being named to the position on March 24, 2004. In his 15 seasons with the team, he has compiled an impressive overall record of 110-45 (.710) and led the Spartans to a 38-game regular season winning streak from 2006-10.

Debeljak guided the Spartans to three consecutive undefeated (10-0) regular seasons, NCAA Playoff appearances and University Athletic Association titles from 2007-09. And from 2007 through 2018, Case Western Reserve posted an overall record of 97-28 (.776), earning Debeljak and his assistants the UAA Coaching Staff of the Year award for three straight seasons from 2007-09 and again in 2011, 2016 and 2017. Additionally, Case Western Reserve has been ranked in the top 25 in the nation in eight of the last 12 seasons, including its highest mark of No. 7 during the final regular season American Football Coaches Association (AFCA) poll in 2009. Debeljak’s .710 career winning percentage ranks as the 16th-best among active Division III coaches.

Debeljak became the first coach in program history to reach the 100-win mark with the team, hitting the milestone during the team’s victory over Westminster College on November 4th, 2017. The triumph was a part of one of the best seasons in the program’s history, as Debeljak led the Spartans to an 11-1 overall record, with the team making the playoffs for the fourth time ever, and reaching the second round of the tournament for the second time. The Spartans won both the PAC and UAA Championships in 2017, leading to Debeljak being named both the PAC and UAA Coach of the Year. He coached senior center Gage Blair to AFCA All-America honors, while Blair, senior quarterback Rob Cuda and senior running back Jacob Burke were each named to the D3football.com All-Region team.

Debeljak also was selected as one of five finalists in Division III for the Liberty Mutual Coach of the Year Award for three straight years (2007-09) and was named the 2008 Lee Tressel Ohio College Coach of the Year by the Northeast Ohio Chapter of the National Football Foundation.

Debeljak’s Spartans also excel in the classroom, annually ranking amongst the nation’s leaders in team GPA. During his time, 14 Spartans have earned Capital One Academic All-America® honors while three have been named a semifinalist for the Draddy Trophy (commonly referred to as the Academic Heisman).

A graduate of nearby Mentor High School, Debeljak served as CWRU’s head coach/offensive coordinator for three seasons before being named head coach. Highlighting his three years as the offensive coordinator, Case Western Reserve ranked first in all of NCAA Division III in passing offense and second in total offense in 2002.

Prior to coming to Case Western Reserve, Debeljak spent 12 years as an assistant (1988-00) at his alma mater, John Carroll University. At JCU, he was a graduate assistant during his first two seasons, before working eight years as the quarterbacks and receivers coach. Before his final season at John Carroll, he was promoted to offensive coordinator.

Debeljak was a member of the staff that produced NFL Pro Bowl linebacker London Fletcher, and he was the position coach for former Denver Broncos Head Coach and current New England Patriots Offensive Coordinator Josh McDaniels, Indianapolis Colts Personnel Director Tom Telesco, and former pros Tom Arth (Colts, Packers, Toronto [CFL]) and Larry Wanke (Giants).

Debeljak earned both his bachelor’s (1988) and master’s (1995) degrees from John Carroll, and he played basketball and football for the Blue Streaks. On the gridiron, he lettered four times, once as a defensive back (earning second-team all-league honors), twice as a quarterback and once as a receiver. As a basketball player, he helped the Blue Streaks to a pair of Presidents’ Athletic Conference titles and held the school record for assists in a single game with 13.

Debeljak and his wife, Kelly, reside in Beachwood. Their two daughters, Ashley ’13 and Allison ’15, were both women’s soccer student-athletes at Case Western Reserve.

THE COACH “DEBS” PHILOSOPHY

Greg Debeljak has a three-part philosophy on how to win both on and off the field, and when it all comes together the Spartan leader feels it positions his team for ultimate success. “You are going to have various levels of success with wins and losses, but I think it’s important to experience other things,” he explained. “When we have recruiting weekends and we meet as a group, this is one of the first things I bring up.”

• The first goal is to become a family through team-building activities.
  “ We want our kids to come together as a team and a family, but it’s difficult,” Debeljak explained. “ Each year brings different players with different personalities – that’s why it is our number one goal. We can’t accomplish anything else until we merge together as a family. The relationships an incoming freshman had with his high school teammates most likely began in elementary school – they grew up with each other. The biggest hurdle is to get (freshmen) to believe in their new family in a shortened period of time.”

• The second is the commitment to excellence in both athletics and academics without sacrificing one for the other.
  “ In regards to academics and athletics, we feel that even though we are one of the better academic institutions in the country, we still want to be competitive on a national level athletically. Simply said, they should both fit together.” The Spartans annually rank amongst the nation’s leaders in team GPA and have boasted one of the top combined winning percentages of any Division III program in the country since 2007.

• Third, student-athletes give something back through community involvement and service.
  One of his first initiatives in this area was making the players a household name with incoming freshmen by helping them move into their dorm rooms, a recurring event every August. And last year, the Spartan gridironers taught football skills to hundreds of inner city elementary students during a university-wide volunteer effort. “ I think it is important to get out there and make your name known to the CWRU Community and to classmates,” Debeljak said. “ The Case For Community Day Sports Clinic event is a lot of fun, and our kids learn as much from the campers as they did from them.”
DERECK SLESH
Offensive Coordinator / Recruiting Coordinator

The 2019 season marks Dereck Slesh’s 16th as offensive coordinator and 19th overall at CWRU. Slesh joined the staff in 2001 and spent his first three seasons as the defensive coordinator. He has also served as the program’s recruiting coordinator since January of 2009.

The Spartans offense has consistently been one of the most effective in Division III with Slesh at the helm. In 2018, he helped coach freshman quarterback Drew Saxton to all-region honors, and the UAA Offensive Player of the Year award. The 2017 squad led all PAC teams in points per game (39.9), while ranking 45th in Division III in yards per game (437.7). The squad set program records for total yards and points during the 2017 campaign. Slesh helped mentor AFCA All-American center Gage Blair, and D3football.com All-Region quarterback Rob Cuda and running back Jacob Burke during the season.

During his time at CWRU, Slesh has guided some of the nation’s top offensive units, including a 2009 squad that ranked fifth in the nation in scoring (42.4 ppg) and seventh in yardage (470.8 ypg). Slesh also produced a three-time (2007-09) UAA Offensive Player of the Year and 2009 AFCA All-American in quarterback Dan Whalen. In 2015, he oversaw the development of D3football.com All-Region selections in quarterback Rob Cuda and tight end Ethan Albers, as the offense finished 29th among all NCAA Division III squads in scoring offense. The 2016 squad set a school record for rushing yards and ranked 14th in Division III with 257.9 rushing yards per game.

Prior to his arrival at Case Western Reserve, Slesh spent three seasons (1996-97, 2000) on the staff at John Carroll University. He also served in the local high school ranks as head coach at Benedictine High School from 1998-99 and as a member of the staff at Beachwood High School from 1990-95. In 1988, Slesh began his coaching career at his high school alma mater, Hawken School.

Slesh was a football and baseball student-athlete at Marietta College, where he earned a bachelor’s degree in business management in 1988. He earned a Master of Business Administration from Cleveland State University in 1996.

WARREN MILLER
Defensive Coordinator/Linebackers

Warren Miller will be starting his seventh season at CWRU and fifth as defensive coordinator/linebackers coach in 2019.

Miller’s defenses have consistently ranked among the best in the conference during his time with the team. In 2018, he helped mentor All-American defensive end Cameron Brown, who was also selected as the PAC and UAA Defensive Player of the Year during the campaign, and finished second among Division III players in sacks per game. Miller’s 2017 unit was one of the best in the Presidents’ Athletic Conference, leading the league in points allowed per game (17.8), total yards allowed per game (289.6) and rushing yards allowed per game (121.8). Defensive end Cameron Brown and linebacker Justin McMahon both earned All-PAC First Team honors, while seven other CWRU defensive players were named to either the second team or an honorable mention. Miller was also a part of the UAA Coaching Staff of the Year during the season for the second time over his career.

In 2016, the Spartans’ defense allowed just 18.7 points per game, the second-lowest mark in the conference and 37th-best in all of Division III. He oversaw the development of D3football.com All-Region Second Team selection Nick Kwon, as five CWRU defense players claimed All-PAC honors during the campaign. In his first season as the team’s defensive coordinator, Miller’s unit finished 15th among all NCAA Division III squads in rushing defense (100.2 yards per game), holding opponents to 22.4 points per game. Ten of his players earned All-PAC honors in 2015.

Miller’s first two seasons with the program were spent as special teams coordinator/linebackers coach, and in 2013 his unit produced the UAA Special Teams Player of the Year.

Before joining the staff in University Circle, Miller spent five seasons as linebackers coach at NCAA Division II Walsh University. He also served as an athletic academic advisor from 2010-12 as well as Director of Compliance and Eligibility from 2007-10.

Prior to his time in North Canton, Miller served for three seasons (2005-07) in a defensive quality control position at the University of Minnesota. During his time on the staff, the Gophers appeared in a pair of bowl games.

Miller also served as a graduate assistant and tight ends coach at Walsh from 2003-05 as well as a student assistant for offensive lineman and tight ends at his alma mater, Baldwin Wallace University, from 2001-03.

Miller graduated from BW with a Bachelor of Arts degree in business administration. He and his wife Bryn live in University Heights with their three sons, Warren, William and Wade.
Ben Lolli rejoined the Case Western Reserve University coaching staff prior to the 2016 season, and currently serves as the team’s Special Teams Coordinator, while also coaching the defensive backs.

Lolli previously served as the wide receivers coach at Case Western Reserve during the 2013 and 2014 seasons. In between stints with the Spartans, he worked at Oberlin College, where he coached special teams and linebackers. Prior to his initial arrival at CWRU, Lolli spent the previous three years at Division II Walsh University with two seasons as a graduate assistant (2010-11) and one as a defensive assistant (2012) for linemen and backs. He previously worked with the Cavalier wide receivers in 2011.

Prior to his time in North Canton, Lolli served as a student assistant for four seasons at his alma mater, Kent State University.

A three-year letterwinner at Stow High School, Lolli went on to earn a bachelor’s degree in history from Kent State in 2009 and a Master of Arts in Education from Walsh in 2012.
The Case Western Reserve University football team finished the 2018 season with an 8-2 record, and tied for second in the Presidents’ Athletic Conference with a 7-2 league record. The Spartans are aiming for their second PAC Championship in the last three years during the 2019 campaign.

CWRU recorded its fourth-straight top-three finish in the PAC standings last season, and finished among the top-two teams in the league for the third-consecutive season. Over the past four seasons, CWRU has a 35-7 record (.833 winning percentage), including a 28-5 mark (.848) in PAC contests.

The Spartans appeared primed for success once again, as the team will return three of its top players from last season in senior defensive end Cameron Brown, an AFCA All-America Second Team honoree, and D3football.com All-Region selections in junior wide receiver Colt Morgan and sophomore quarterback Drew Saxton. The three will pace a group of seven starters returning on the offensive side of the ball, and nine returning defensive starters, giving CWRU a proven veteran core of players for the upcoming season.

“We’re still a young, but experienced team,” said Head Coach Greg Debeljak, who will begin his 16th season with a 110-45 overall record, the best in program history. “We don’t have a great deal of seniors who are seeing a lot of playing time. Saying that, we are in a perfect position to compete nationally.”

CWRU will enter the season ranked 24th in the Lindy’s Sports NCAA Division III Top-25.

“Expectations are high, as opposed to last year, when there was a lot of uncertainty with so many players from that great 2017 team graduating,” said Debeljak. “Last year’s team proved that they could play with anyone in the country. We have great leadership, and besides returning many players, we’re returning a lot of leaders. Our expectations are high, and we believe that we could have a very good team.”

OFFENSE

The Spartans high-powered offense ranked as one of the best in Division III in 2018. CWRU’s 38.3 points per game led all PAC teams and ranked 31st in the country, while the team’s 466.8 yards of offense per contest also paced the PAC and ranked 15th in Division III. The team’s strength was its passing game, led by Saxton, which amassed 328.9 yards per game, the sixth-most among NCAA Division III teams last season.

“Last year, we adapted to Drew’s skill set, which was different from Rob Cuda’s skill set in 2017,” said Debeljak. “We plan to continue to adapt this year to further play to our strengths.”

CWRU also featured one of the most potent red zone offenses in Division III last season, converting over 90% of their red zone opportunities into points in 2018, the seventh-highest rate in the nation last year. In addition to bringing back seven starters on offense, the Spartans will return all 11 players who were listed second on the offensive two deep at the end of the 2018 season.

Quarterback

Key returners: Drew Saxton (So.)
Starters lost: None
Saxton was one of the top quarterbacks in the country during his freshman season, earning a spot on the D3football.com All-South Region Third Team (the only freshman on the offensive side of the ball to earn an all-region honor from the organization last year), while securing PAC Newcomer of the Year and All-PAC First Team honors. He led the conference in completion percentage (62.4%), passing touchdowns (34), and passing yards (3,033) during his rookie season. Saxton’s 34 touchdowns matched a program record, while passing for over 1,000 yards more than any other freshman in program history.

“We knew we had a very good quarterback coming in with Drew after the recruiting process, but we underestimated how good he was,” said Debeljak. “I can’t compare what he did to any other quarterback I’ve coached that came in and played as a freshman, and that includes a list that has played professionally. Expectations for him are high, and we are going to put more decision making on him, since he now has a year of experience.”

Junior Matthew Boss and senior Peter Hontas have both seen time in games over their careers, and should provide depth behind Saxton at quarterback.

Receiver/ Tight End

Key returners: Colt Morgan (Jr.), Mario Robaina (Sr.), Adam Zybko (Sr.), Ryan Coolidge (Sr.)
Starters lost: Luke DiFrancesco, Justin Phan, Joey Spitalli
Saxton has numerous veteran options to throw to during his freshman season, helping ease his transition into the college game. This year, CWRU will be looking to replace three of those... options who graduated – Luke DiFrancesco, Justin Phan and Joey Spitalli – who combined for 101 catches and 1,639 yards. However, with the team’s leading receiver and a number of additional options returning, CWRU is hoping the passing game won’t skip a beat.

“Last year, we had a very experienced group of receivers, and a number of those players are gone,” said Debeljak. “I think we have talent at the position, but it has not seen the field yet. An exciting part of the preseason will be getting to see what those players can do, and how Drew can best utilize the talent around him.”

The Spartans are slated to return their top receiving option from last season in Morgan, who is coming off a breakout campaign after earning a spot on the all-region second team and the All-PAC First Team. Morgan set a program record with 18 touchdown receptions (second in DIII in 2018), while his 1,094 receiving yards (15th in DII) and 7.9 receptions per game (14th in DIII) were each the second-highest single-season totals in program history.

“We’re going to expand Colt’s role by playing him at every spot we can,” said Debeljak. “His presence on the field will open up opportunities for other skill position players. We’re working on things to get him involved all over the field. Colt is a unique talent with his size and speed and can catch the ball over people. I’m not sure we’ve ever had someone with his skill set play for us. He’s a weapon and we’re going to use him.”

Senior wide receiver Mario Robaina will see his role expanded in 2019, as he looks to step into the starting lineup after catching eight passes for 131 yards during his junior campaign.

“Mario has played varsity for his first three years – he’s very versatile, physically tough, and has made big plays in big games, but hasn’t been an every down player yet in his career. We think that he can step in and fill one of the three spots that we lost to graduation,” said Debeljak.

Senior Ryan Coolidge and junior Chase Witte will look to fill the spot vacated by Bachie at right tackle. In the interior of the line, juniors Brennan Ryan, Ryan Jones and Michael Hankey, could all be a factor. Sophomores Joshua Blamer and Thomas Koss will add depth behind the starting tackles.

An additional element to CWRU’s receiving game will be at tight end, where senior Adam Zybko has caught 23 passes for 318 yards and a touchdown over his career, and sophomore Alex Glatz will have a chance to make an impact after seeing limited playing time as a freshman.

An additional element to CWRU’s receiving game will be at tight end, where senior Adam Zybko has caught 23 passes for 318 yards and a touchdown over his career, and sophomore Alex Glatz will have a chance to make an impact after seeing limited playing time as a freshman.

Other returning veterans for the Spartans include juniors Trey Minnich, Jacob Berg and Joe Dinko and sophomore Jack Crouch, while senior Austin Navarette and sophomore Austin Keil will have an opportunity to play at tight end.

Running Back

Key returners: Sam Jenkins (Sr.), Zach Hall (Jr.), Donald Day III (So.)

While the passing game was the focal point of the Spartans’ offense in 2018, CWRU’s ground game also had a successful showing during the campaign, contributing 137.9 yards per game.

In addition, CWRU’s 4.0 yards per carry marked the fifth-best average in the conference during the season.

“The running back position will be handled by committee, and how that shakes out is a combination on what we want to emphasize and who is healthy,” said Debeljak. “We have a number of players who have proven to the coaching staff that they can perform at a high level.”

The Spartans will be returning all of their impact backs from last season, including senior Sam Jenkins (399 yards, two TDs), junior Zach Hall (379 yards, three TDs), sophomore Donald Day III (159 yards, two TDs), junior Kyle Turcovsky (109 yards) and sophomore Nate Stefonsky (80 yards, one TD).

“Jenkins and Hall did a good job last year splitting time, and Day showed flashes of brilliance when he played,” said Debeljak. “Stefonsky might be the best-rounded of the group, and he was one of our best skill players in the spring.”

In addition, junior Brett Carney will transition from linebacker to fullback, giving the Spartans a power option in their running game.

“For the most part, our running backs are smaller stature, but can do things in the open field. We moved Carney to give us a fullback-type option at the position,” said Debeljak.

Sophomore J.J. Henson will provide another veteran option for the Spartans in their running game.

Offensive Line

Key returners: Derek Clontz (Sr.), Dee Gose (Jr.), Anthony Polizzi (Ir.), Thomas Strayer (Sr.)

Starters lost: Steven Bachie

Another area of the Spartans’ offense with returning veteran talent is the offensive line, which will bring back four of the five starting players from last year’s unit. The group, which allowed just 1.8 sacks per game last season, is scheduled to return All-PAC Honorable Mention center and senior Thomas Strayer, in addition to senior left tackle Derek Clontz, and junior guards Dee Gose and Anthony Polizzi.

 “[2018 starting right tackle] Steven Bachie leaves, and he was a great leader who knew our offense well, but we have four starters back who all performed well,” said Debeljak. “Strayer has been a three-year starter, and we can play him at any of the three positions on the line, so it gives us some great flexibility. Gose was an Academic All-American last year, and we think he could be an athletic All-American this year if he performs well. We also have some players who haven’t started, but have played quite a bit, and will have an opportunity.”

Junior John Faczek and senior Josh Schlichting will look to fill in the spot vacated by Bachie at right tackle. In the interior of the line, juniors Brennan Ryan, Ryan Jones and Michael Babbitt, along with sophomore Thomas Hankey, could all be a factor. Sophomores Joshua Blamer and Thomas Koss will add depth behind the starting tackles.

DEFENSE

While the Spartans’ offense grabbed the headlines in 2018, the defense ranked among the best in the conference as well. CWRU’s 18.1 points allowed per game were the second fewest in the PAC last season (and 47th among all Division III teams), while the squad's 297.0 yards allowed per contest ranked third in the PAC and 46th in Division III. The Spartans featured a particularly stout rushing defense, allowing just 106.7 yards per game, the 45th-lowest mark in Division III and second-lowest in the league.

"Coach Miller and his staff have done a good job of putting people into games in a rotation," said Debeljak. "We've played three outside backers, three inside backers, five defensive linemen in a three-man front that rotated in, so even when you lose people to graduation, you still have players with experience who develop further with more reps. Depth always helps, and we think we have it at all the positions on defense."

Nine of the team's 11 starters on last year's defense will be returning, along with an additional 10 players who were listed on the two-deep at the end of last season.

Defensive Line

Key returners: Cameron Brown (Sr.), Andrew Lease (Sr.)

Starters lost: Tyler Bushman, Ian Henderson

The defensive line will be the area of the defense where the Spartans will need to replace the most starters from last year's team. However, the team will be returning its key piece of the line at defensive end in Cameron Brown, who will look to provide a follow-up to his All-America campaign last season. The reigning PAC Defensive Player of the Year set a program single-season record in 2018 with 15 sacks, while his 1.5 sacks per game were the second-most among all Division III players.

"The number one thing about Cameron is his worth ethic, and not just physically, but also how much time he puts into the mental part," said Debeljak. "He has some fine physical ability, but his mental makeup and how he goes about preparing sets him apart from other players at this level. He definitely is our best player – I'm sure teams will concentrate on him, but they concentrated on him last year too."

Looking to fill in the gap at defensive tackle will be senior Andrew Lease, who will likely step into the starting lineup after playing in 25 games over the first three years of his career, recording 26 tackles and four sacks. Senior Reed Gershenson is another experienced option at the position, having played well in limited time on the field over his first three years. At the other defensive end spot, senior Adam Poltrack will see his role expanded after appearing in nine games last year and recording half a sack, as will junior Dylan Zegers, who notched 2.5 tackles for a loss and 14 total tackles (11 solo) over seven games in 2018.

Other returning options at defensive end include junior Austin Subler and sophomores Dante Grecco, Jack Baker and Luis Rivera II, while junior Phillip Wyatt and sophomore Charles Rivera II will provide additional depth in the middle of the line.

"Cameron is the player that sticks out, but we have a pretty nice group, and all have various levels of experience," said Debeljak.

Linebacker

Key returners: Travis Johnston (Jr.), Brian Victor (Jr.), Skyler Wadas (Jr.), Isaac Withrow (Sr.), Joshua Smith (Jr.)

Starters lost: None

All four starters at linebacker from last year's team will be back for CWRU, led on the inside by All-PAC Second Team senior Isaac Withrow and junior Travis Johnston. Withrow led the Spartans with 87 tackles last season, including 3.5 for a loss, while Johnston recorded 54 tackles and forced a pair of fumbles, finishing fourth on the team in total tackles despite missing a pair of games. Juniors Michael Amadio and Dominic Barandica and sophomore Alec Peltekian should all see time on the field during the season as well.

"Travis and Isaac are very good football players," said Debeljak. "Travis is as fine an athlete as I've ever coached. He has the ability to go sideline-to-sideline, guard people in the passing game, and bring physicality on the blitz – he's the complete package. Isaac's strength is his reaction time, and how quickly he reads and reacts to plays. He's a perfect example of how you want to play that position. Amadio is also someone at the inside position who has played quite a bit, and we feel confident in him when he is on the field."

Juniors Brian Victor and Skyler Wadas are the two returning starters at outside linebacker, while junior Joshua Smith will be moving up from safety this season to strengthen the rotation at the position. Victor was second on the team with four sacks and 6.5 tackles for a loss, while ranking fifth on the squad with 51 tackles. Wadas added 35 tackles and recovered a pair of fumbles, and Smith ranked third on the team with 77 tackles, including 3.5 for a loss.

"To go along with Skyler, who is a great physical presence, and Brian, who does a fantastic job in open space, Smith coming down from safety gives us another player to bring off the edge. He's better the closer he gets to the line of scrimmage. We're excited because we have some really good players at that position, and a number of them are still only juniors."

Senior Brett Marcus, who has 17 tackles and a pair of sacks in 15 career games, and junior Joshua Clopp could also see time in the outside linebacker rotation in 2019.

Defensive Backs

Key returners: Patrick Crossey (Sr.), Kevin Chrissis (Sr.), Colin Schuster (So.)

Starters lost: None

CWRU will be returning experienced players throughout its secondary. Even with Smith making the move from safety to linebacker, the Spartans will have three returners in their defensive secondary, including senior safety, co-captain and two-time All-PAC selection Patrick Crossey, who was second on last year's team with 82 tackles and added a pair of interceptions. Junior Nick Kadlecik, who has played in 14 career games and has a pair of interceptions, will have a chance to step into a starting role, while juniors Mason Gee-Montgomery (who will move from quarterback to the defensive side of the ball) and Cooper Tulloch could also factor into the equation as safety, as will senior Jeremy Hill and sophomore Jackson Mitchell.

"Our defensive backfield is deep. We have five seniors who have all played, and then we have players who have played and have had success, but have received limited playing time and will play bigger roles this year," said Debeljak. "Someone like Kadlecik falls into that group, and we have moved Gee-Montgomery from quarterback to safety to take advantage of his athleticism. Meanwhile, Crossey will be a four-year starter, and brings great play on the field and leadership. We think safety will be a position of strength for us."

At cornerback, senior All-PAC Honorable Mention Kevin Chrissis will be back after starting 18 of the team's 22 games over the last two seasons, as will sophomore Colin Schuster, who made an immediate impact after starting eight games during his freshman campaign. The duo tied for the team lead with three interceptions apiece, with Chrissis adding 12 tackles and two pass breakups, and Schuster leading the squad with six breakups to go along with 41 tackles.

‘Kevin is very reliable and understands the game, and can make plays with his mind by putting himself in good positions. Colin is physically as good as anyone we’ve had at the position, and has a great mentality for the corner position,” said Debeljak.

Seniors Luke Bedell and Munyadradzi Mangwende each have seen considerable time on the field over their careers, and are capable of starting this year as well, while juniors Steven Clark and Corey King will add further veteran depth to the group.

SPECIAL TEAMS
Key returners: Robertson Albrecht (So.), Chase Witte (Jr.), Nate Stefonsky (So.), Mario Robaina (Sr.)
Starters lost: Justin Phan
Sophomore kicker Robertson Albrecht will be returning for the Spartans after earning the University Athletic Association Special Teams Player of the Year award and claiming a spot on the All-PAC First Team as a freshman. He converted all nine of his field goal tries and 48-of-49 extra point attempts in 2018, totaling 75 points for the Spartans, the fifth-highest scoring season by a kicker in program history.

“Robbie was a very pleasant surprise to put up the numbers he did. He’s very reliable and a solid kickoff guy. As a coach, it makes you feel a lot better going into a season when you have a reliable kicker like he is.”

Witte, a jack-of-all-trades for CWRU last year, served as the team’s primary punter, averaging 33.2 yards per punt, including a long of 49 yards, and placed three inside the 20-yard line.

‘Witte did a good job last year, but he’s a position player and not a full time punter,” said Debeljak. “We have a freshman coming in who will challenge him at the position, which will afford us to the ability to get a little creative. You may see some different things from our punt team.”

CWRU also returns a pair of experienced long snappers in juniors Kanyon Combs and Jack Williams.

Witte and Stefonsky were the team’s primary kick returners last year, with Witte averaging 20.6 yards per return, and Stefonsky adding 23.2 yards per return. The Spartans will look to replace Justin Phan on punt returns, but Robaina should be more than capable after returning 32 punts over the first three years of his career, averaging 6.7 yards per return. Minnich could also factor in on punt returns in 2019.

“We have some reliable returners, but we haven’t been able to create big plays with our return game,” said Debeljak. “We’re going to be putting more emphasis on special teams this year. Out of all the phases of the game last year, we felt that special teams needed to improve the most, and we’ve done some things in the offseason that we think will make us better.”

PAC OUTLOOK/ SCHEDULE
Although there will no longer be a UAA Champion crowned at the end of the year, for the second-straight season the Spartans will open their campaign against a former UAA rival in the University of Rochester. The season-opener is scheduled for September 7th at 7:00 p.m. in Rochester, New York.

After a week two bye, the Spartans will begin their PAC schedule, facing Grove City College under the lights at DiSanto Field on September 21st in the team’s home opener. Following a road contest at Thiel, CWRU will begin a two-game home stand that could help shape their season, hosting Westminster on October 5th and Washington and Jefferson on October 12th, which will also mark Homecoming at CWRU. The Presidents, who are the reigning PAC Champions, are ranked 20th in the Lindy’s Preseason Top-25 and 22nd in the Street & Smith’s Magazine preseason rankings.

‘Washington and Jefferson is always the team to beat, but Westminster has proven that they are a top contender year-in and year-out, and Grove City has made enormous strides,” said Debeljak.

The second half of the Spartans’ season will begin at Saint Vincent College, followed by home contests against Geneva and Bethany. CWRU will wrap-up its regular season with a pair of road games, playing at Waynesburg on November 9th, before heading to Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania for the 34th-Annual Academic Bowl against rival Carnegie Mellon on November 16th. The last two editions of the Academic Bowl have each gone into overtime, with the Spartans winning on the road in 2017, and the Tartans claiming a victory in Cleveland in 2018.

“As a staff, we’ve put renewed emphasis on the Carnegie Mellon game as a rivalry game, and whatever our record is going into that game, it will be our biggest of the year,” said Debeljak. “Our number one goal is to beat Carnegie Mellon, and we feel that if we can do that, we have a good shot at being league champs.”

Should the Spartans claim the 2019 PAC Championship, they would earn their fifth postseason berth in the program’s history, and their second in the last three years.

“The first thing you need to do is win the league, and then after that, the national rewards will come,” said Debeljak. ‘I think that we can play at a national level. Now we just have to show up week-in and week-out and prove that.”

Academic Bowl

Each fall, student-athletes from Case Western Reserve University and Carnegie Mellon University meet on the gridiron with the victor claiming the Academic Bowl. Although the football series between the Spartans and Tartans began in 1970, it wasn’t until 1986 when the annual meeting between two of the nation’s top academic institutions was labeled the Academic Bowl.

With each school ranked amongst the nation’s elite research and scholarly institutions, a natural rivalry exists in academics. So as competition in the classroom continues, the winner of the coveted Academic Bowl can claim bragging rights on the athletic field for at least one year.

The Academic Bowl is more than a trophy, however, as it emphasizes a “Commitment to Academic and Athletic Excellence”.

THE PRESIDENTS’ ATHLETIC CONFERENCE

The Presidents’ Athletic Conference (PAC), built on the basic belief that an athletic program is an integral part of college life, but not an entity in itself, looks back on over sixty years of growth and ahead to years of continued academic and athletic excellence.

The league’s name clearly reflects its founding principle that operational control of all aspects of intercollegiate athletics is ultimately the responsibility of the presidents of each member institution, and thus active presidential leadership and oversight is paramount in conference administration.

Formally organized in 1955 by Western Reserve University, John Carroll University, Case Institute of Technology and Wayne State University, the PAC was the result of a realization that college athletics, despite numerous virtues for the individual and the institution, were gradually becoming a financial and academic burden. If athletics were to be continued, action had to be taken to place the program on its proper level. This included the premise that benefits of participation should be provided to as many students as possible. The PAC and its membership continue its original, defining mission of promoting intercollegiate athletics and the pursuit of academic excellence.

Institutions involved understand that the key components to its progress lie in the foundation of faith in each member by each other member. It is the conviction of its membership that the PAC is the solution to the dilemma of intercollegiate athletic competition, and they have staked their athletic future on this premise.

Comprised of 10 select private institutions – Bethany College, Chatham University, Franciscan University of Steubenville, Geneva College, Grove City College, Saint Vincent College, Thiel College, Washington & Jefferson College, Waynesburg University and Westminster College – the PAC remains a unique organization in this day of high pressure intercollegiate athletics, with academics at the center of each member’s philosophy.

In 2012, the PAC Presidents’ Council voted to add Carnegie Mellon University and Case Western Reserve University as affiliate members in the sport of football.

The PAC crowns league champions and awards all-conference honors in its 23 championship sports. Head coaches determine All-PAC squads for all team sports, while in individual sports, such as cross country, golf and indoor and outdoor track and field, all-PAC accolades are based upon performances at the conference championships.

The PAC, which recently celebrated its 60th anniversary, annually awards its men’s and women’s All-Sports Trophies to the schools which perform best across the board in PAC competition.

Staying true to its original mission of promoting intercollegiate athletics and the pursuit of academic excellence, the PAC has seen over 200 of its participating student-athletes recognized as Academic All-Americans, while the league has also produced numerous NCAA Postgraduate Scholarship winners. Last year, the conference named 1,097 of its student-athletes to the PAC Academic Honor Roll, which recognizes all participating student-athletes who earn a term grade-point average of 3.60 or above.
Case Western Reserve University’s 500-plus athletes on 19 varsity teams received new Nike uniforms and footwear thanks to gifts from the Rudy family and the apparel company, honoring the late Marion Frank Rudy (CIT ’50), inventor of Nike’s Air Sole technology.

Each team’s uniform has a patch that features his initials set in 3-D lettering, resembling an Air Sole shoe cushion. In the background, the stars and planets are a nod to Rudy’s early career as an aerospace engineer, working on NASA’s Saturn and Apollo rocket engines.
