The formation of the University Athletic Association (UAA) is a bold statement of what college athletics can and should be—that it is highly desirable and possible for a group of committed institutions to conduct a broad-based program of intercollegiate athletics for men and women; to compete with like academic institutions spread over geographically expansive areas; and to seek excellence in athletics while maintaining a perspective that holds the student-athlete and the academic mission of the institution as the center of focus.

The University Athletic Association, which is in its 32nd year, is a significant expression of the principle that the provision of a high-quality college athletic experience is worth the commitment required of an institution. It is worthwhile not only because it benefits the entire campus community and, in turn, the institution itself.

Perhaps more importantly, the UAA is a strong statement that the success of intercollegiate athletics is wholly dependent upon institutional integrity and the ability of institutions to complete the full integration of athletics into the academic fiber of higher education.

Members of the UAA share the belief that academic excellence and athletic excellence are not mutually exclusive. Implicit in this belief are several sets of assumptions. The first is that the academic enterprise is the primary element. Student-athletes are just that—students first and athletes second.

The second set of assumptions has to do with athletic excellence. Athletic excellence is not to be confused with a win-at-all-costs attitude. It properly relates to the caliber of experience offered to students who participate in intercollegiate athletics.

UAA institutions have captured 51 NCAA national team championships since the league’s inception in 1987-88—19 (10 volleyball, five women’s basketball, two men’s basketball, one men’s tennis, one women’s cross county, one women’s indoor track & field, one women’s outdoor track & field, one women’s soccer) by Washington University.

Brandeis University, Carnegie Mellon University, Case Western Reserve University, University of Chicago, Emory University, New York University, University of Rochester and Washington University compete for the women’s soccer championship.

The University Athletic Association (UAA) sponsors competition in 23 sports—12 for men and 11 for women. Competition is in several forms. Among these are round-robin play, round-robin tournaments, round-robin tournaments followed by a single elimination round, and championship meets or tournaments.

Salem, Va., Dec. 3, 2016 – Junior Megan Wolf converted the game-winning penalty kick as the No. 8-ranked Washington University in St. Louis women’s soccer team posted a 5-4 shootout victory over No. 6 Messiah College to claim the 2016 NCAA Division III National Championship Saturday at Kerr Stadium in Salem, Va. The game ended in a 1-1 tie after 110 minutes of play.

The national championship for the women’s soccer team is its first in school history, and the 20th in the history of the WashU Department of Athletics. WashU improved to 19-2-3, while Messiah ended its season with a 22-3 mark. The 19 wins are tied for the third most in school history.

WashU converted all five penalty kicks in the shootout: sophomore Caroline Dempsey, junior Kelly Von Zup, sophomore Jessica Kovach, junior Gillian Myers and Wolf.

“We are humbled to have the support of our Bear nation and our soccer families,” said head coach Jim Conlon. “We are very thankful and honored to be the national champion in 2016.”

Freshman Taylor Cohen gave WashU the 1-0 advantage in the 72nd minute after she took a cross from senior Lexie Sprague and buried a shot just over the head of Yunez. The goal for Cohen was her sixth of the season. WashU held the one-goal lead until the 84th minute, when Erin Sollenberger scored off a rebound from DJ Cole to tie the score.

Senior Lizzy Crist (19-1-3) made a season-high six saves in the contest, and was named the NCAA Championship Most Outstanding Defensive Player for the second-straight season. Senior Katie Chandler was named the NCAA Championship Most Outstanding Offensive Player after scoring two goals in the semifinals, while Cohen and senior back Megan Nicklay were named to the All-Tournament Team.

WashU’s senior class (Chandler, Crist, Nicklay, Hannah Rosenberg, Allie Schiffman, Sprague) concluded their four-year career tied for the winningest in school history with a 72-10-7 (.843) overall record.
