2019 NCAA DIVISION III WOMEN’S ROWING CHAMPIONSHIPS SELECTIONS

INDIANAPOLIS---The NCAA Division III Women’s Rowing Committee has selected the institutions that will compete in the 2019 NCAA Division III Women’s Rowing Championships.

The championships will be held May 31-June 1 at the Indianapolis Rowing Center in Indianapolis, with Indiana University and the Indiana Sports Corporation serving as hosts.

The championships are comprised of eight teams and each team is required to field two boats of eight rowers and a coxswain. The following are the berths that are allocated: Pool A – four (Pool A consists of conferences that have been awarded automatic qualification); Pool B/C – four (Pools B and C include independents, institutions from conferences that do not meet automatic-qualification standards and Pool A institutions that did not receive their conference’s automatic qualification.).

TEAMS:

Pool A
Liberty League
Mid-Atlantic Rowing Conference
New England Small College Athletic Conference
New England Women’s and Men’s Athletic Conference

*Automatic qualifier
Pool B/C
Hamilton
Pacific Lutheran
Wellesley
Wesleyan (Connecticut)

In 2018, Bates captured its second straight and third national title in four years at the NCAA Division III Women’s Rowing Championships held at Nathan Benderson Park in Sarasota, Florida. Bates put together victories in both the Grand Finals for the national title.

For championship information and results, including live streaming of championship racing, log on to www.ncaa.com.

-30-

MKS: pjw