MEN AND WOMEN CROSS COUNTRY

TERRY L. ALDRICH: Terry, an eight year veteran, led both the men and women's teams to winning seasons last year and coached two runners to the 1982 nationals. The 1968 graduate of St. Lawrence University was an outstanding scholar-athlete and co-captain of track, ski and soccer teams. He was a member of both the National Nordic Team and Olympic biathlon training squads and competed in the 1970-71 World Championships. Aldrich came here from the University of New Hampshire. In addition to cross-country, he coaches skiing and serves as assistant track coach. His ski team finished fifth in the first NCAA combined men's and women's ski championship this year.

PROSPECTS

The traditionally strong women's team, which suffered its first dual meet loss in six years last year, returns nearly intact except for the loss of Jamie Maeder, 33rd in the NCAA meet last year. Leading the squad of talented returnees are Mary Ogden, Liz Rand, Kathy Daniells and Christina Ligner. Ligner, a two-time All-American track star, who was fifth in the nationals last spring, should make a major contribution to the Panther harriers. Kathy Donahue has the potential to be a top performer as well as Caroline Curran, another track standout.

Helping to give the team real talent and depth are freshmen Lilly Shuell, a U.S. Ski team member, and Kathy Stovem, a member of the Alaska Jr. Olympic ski team. Middlebury should once again be the top team in its conference.

Despite the loss of a trio of runners including Vermont State champion Tom Van de Water, the men's team should once again be strong. This year's squad is paced by captain Mike Graham, 28th in last year's NCAA championships, Mike Spaidal and Jim Bromley. Also back from last year's top seven are Eric Menck, Nick Hahn and Scott Tucker.

Based on their outstanding results in the 800 meters in track last spring, both Ware Kuschner and Dave Hooper should make a strong contribution to the team. Also Mike Blacker and Eric Schmidt, with a good summer of training under their belts, should move into the top seven to provide added depth.

Middlebury is expected to be among the top teams in its league and will present a real challenge to UVM for the state title.
