PROSPECT CAMP
Learn to be the best by learning from the best!

Camp Overview
The one-day camp is intended for student-athletes interested in attending and playing softball for Carnegie Mellon University to learn more about the opportunity and overall experience of a Division III student-athlete. During the camp we will cover all parts of our game from everyday drills to position specific workouts. We will also provide an introduction into the fundamentals of our offensive game which focuses on hitting, bunting, and slapping. Attendees will participate in collegiate level drills designed to simulate the environment that players experience throughout a collegiate season while having the opportunity to gain feedback and be evaluated by the staff. Attendees will also have the opportunity to interact with the current team as well as tour campus as a part of the camp.

Additional Information
Players MUST bring their own helmet, bat and sneakers. No metal cleats will be permitted on the turf. Water and ice will be provided. It is recommended that each camper bring their own water bottle. Lunch will not be provided. Please bring your own.
